Projecis Offers 30-day Free Trial on Cloud-based Project Management Platform with Issues Management Tools and Professionally Produced Video News

Projecis provides secure project management and professional network for team collaboration, content sharing and instant access to members' LinkedIn® profiles and Skype® communication

San Diego – May 25, 2011 – Projecis, Inc., a project content and management software company, has announced general availability of its cloud-based project management platform – www.projecis.com – with a free 30-day trial.

Designed to give users a knowledge convergence environment for their projects, Projecis enables users to manage issues, connect teams, coordinate meetings, organize data, and report project status for better project outcomes. Users can access project status, timing measures, files, data, member profiles (including LinkedIn®), and video news updates via a secure, web-based platform. The Projecis Preview and Presence window creates a rich, professional network environment for team members to collaborate for faster decision-making.

Communication 2.0 features within Projecis include options for connecting with members over Skype®, IM/chat, email, text, landline or mobile phone. Real-time discussions and commentary on project artifacts can be performed and saved for future reference. “Ping,” unique to the Projecis platform, enables a message blast to team members’ preferred modes of communication simultaneously.

“Many companies are falling behind because they aren’t utilizing current technologies – they’re still using time consuming email and weekly conference calls to manage projects. Projectis puts all the current technology at your fingertips, so you have the knowledge, accountability and confidence that your project is on time and on track,” says Projectis CEO Russ Holmes. “My years of running clinical trials showed time after time the waste due to lack of communication, task coordination, and information handling, resulting in missed deadlines and cost overruns.

Today’s projects need a platform that organizes information, meetings, news updates and real-time communication to be truly competitive in the global marketplace.”

Beta users in clinical research, entertainment and software industries have given the platform high marks for its ability to provide real-time data on a project’s health, a rich user experience and enhanced meeting and reporting capabilities they can’t get on other platforms.

“Tracking issues, discussing topics, and sharing information with sponsors across time zones are typical challenges for contract research organizations. The Projectis cloud-based platform is a much more sophisticated project management platform than anything out there now, with video news updates, a meeting center and communication 2.0 features at a price point that’s unbelievable,” says Dr. Ales Horacek, CEO, EastHORN Clinical Services. “We can’t imagine managing future projects without it.”

Projectis features include:

Issues Management

Notifications on issues that could affect project health enable project leaders to assign issues, monitor issue resolution and create reports to ensure positive project outcomes.

Discussions, Messaging, and Comments

Team members can chat, Ping, and make calls to other members in Projectis. Group discussions can be held online and in real-time, while members can also make comments on project artifacts, such as files, news, and milestones. All discussions and comments are saved in the system.

Video News Reports

Professionally produced video news broadcasts for any aspect of your projects provide a polished, professional feel to present to clients, internal management, boards of directors, prospective clients and investors.
