

Projecis Demonstrates Flagship Project Management Software at Outsourcing Clinical Trials-West in San Francisco

Company expands features for clinical trial industry; includes Gantt chart, team assignments and added content security

SAN DIEGO, January 24, 2013 - Projecis, Inc., a content and collaboration software company, will be exhibiting at Outsourcing in Clinical Trials – West Coast in San Francisco, January 29 – 30, highlighting its new features and growth.

Projecis expands its robust collaborative management tool with features to bolster project planning, efficiency and security. At Outsourcing in Clinical Trials – West, Projecis will demonstrate newly added features that provide team leaders additional tools to efficiently manage projects, such as Gantt chart generation, project-member assignment views and enhanced content security options.

August Research and Chrysalis Consulting are two organizations that started using Projecis because they needed tools that provide a robust set of project management features at a great value, and most importantly – tools that are tailored to meet the unique needs of clinical research projects.

August Research, headquartered in Bulgaria, is a CRO that performs Phase I-IV clinical trials throughout Central and Eastern Europe. Having already deployed the system, it is expanding its use of Projecis and increasing its number of users.

“Projecis has proved to be a valuable platform for our projects,” says Dana Niedzielska, CEO of August Research. “Our use of Projecis has resulted in efficiencies that we want to replicate in other projects.”

Chrysalis Consulting recommends Projecis to its clients in the clinical trial industry as a way to create efficiencies and keep projects in line with objectives. “My clients are excited when they see the benefits that Projecis brings to their projects,” says Laura Robinson, CEO of Chrysalis Consulting, a San Diego-based clinical development consulting company. “Projecis aligns with my company’s mission to provide high quality services and tools.”
